RE: Application Number 09/837,314
1st Office Action Dated 2/10/2004

Dear Mr. Bomberg:

I have recently realized that my response to 1st Office Action dated 2/10/2004, for my invention with the name of "A Gravity-fed Liquid Chemical Dispensing Bottle" was for the wrong active patent application number (App. No. 10/439,003) also having six drawing figures. I am sorry for the human mix-up.

I am inquiring about the status of my application number 09/837,314 as I am anxious to continue patent prosecution and to settle claims.

In regard to your objections in the 1st office action:

- 1). I concur with the different species objection and wish to file a divisional patent application on the gravity spray bottle species.
- 2). I will abandon the gravity oil bottle species.
- 3). I wish to submit new claims for a preferred embodiment of the very viscous liquid chemical gravity dispensing bottle with claims encompassing an alternative embodiment for a medium viscosity liquid chemical and also claims for another alternative embodiment of a low viscosity liquid chemical which both alternative embodiments involve simply removing parts from the preferred embodiment due to less need for air intake. These modifications are all obvious to a medium skilled packaging designer with all possibly knowledge of prior art and a knowledge of the preferred embodiment.
- 4). I wish to submit two obvious error corrections to two drawing figures.

1 of 2

5). I wish to cancel two drawing figures for the two species mentioned just above.

Sincerely,

Kevin Kawakita
